FINAL ANNOUNCEMENT!
Please keep this brochure. No further mailings will take place.

If you receive more than one copy, won’t you please pass the extra along to a colleague, staff member or student?

Please do not remove the mailing label.
Dear Colleagues,

Throughout this 27th annual gathering of clinicians, we will seriously reconsider Heinz Kohut’s salient question, “How does analysis cure?”

On Thursday, there will be a daylong, Pre-Conference program. Participants will be able to choose two sessions from among ten possibilities, one session chosen from the morning’s offerings, and one from the afternoon’s. These include: two master classes, one offered by Donna Orange and Robert Stolorow, and the other by Anna and Paul Ornstein; a workshop on learning disabilities with Joseph Palombo; a workshop on working with parents and families with Amy Eldridge and Carla Leone; a case conference on trauma, dissociation, and dissociative identity disorder offered by Ira Poll and Estelle Shane; and workshops on analytic work with creative individuals presented by George Hagman, Carol Press, Carl Rotenberg, and David Shaddock; infant research with Beatrice Beebe; couples therapy with Martin Livingston and David Shaddock; and group therapy with Gil Spielberg and Walter Stone.

The main conference begins on Thursday evening with a plenary presentation featuring Steven Knoblauch and Phillip Ringstrom, entitled Body Rhythms and Improvisation: Play with the Music Behind the Lyrics in Psychoanalysis. This session is available to both Pre Conference and Main Conference participants. It is preceded by a Welcoming Wine and Cheese Reception, also for all participants.

The Main Conference features a series of four plenary sessions through which the ongoing process of a single analysis is explored over the course of time. Each of the four plenary sessions begins with verbatim case material taken from the phase of analysis under review, with the material discussed by two renowned analysts of different theoretical orientations, using their own perspectives to respond to the question: “How does analysis cure?” The case presenter is Lucyann Carlton, a Senior colleague and friend. The title of his talk will be Specificity Theory: Conceptualization of a Personal and Professional Quest for Therapeutic Possibility. The Pre-Conference and Main Conference taken together offer a total of 23.5 continuing education credits, making this conference a valuable and unique educational and professional opportunity. The conference will take place in San Diego, a location of extraordinary beauty and appeal. The conference hotel is centrally located in the heart of downtown San Diego and just steps from the vibrant Gaslamp Quarter, with myriad shops, fine dining and casual restaurants, theaters, and nightlife. San Diego offers 70 miles of some of California’s most picturesque coastline, as well as attractions such as the world famous San Diego Zoo, WildAnimal Park, SeaWorld, historic Old Town, beautiful Coronado, and Mexico just 20 minutes to the south. For combined scholarly, professional, and entertainment opportunities, join us for this 27th annual gathering of colleagues and friends.

CONTINUING EDUCATION

This conference is intended for psychoanalysts, psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, psychiatric nurses, marriage and family counselors, professional counselors and clinical professional counselors. The conference is organized to facilitate maximum opportunity for questions, comments and dialogue between the audience and the presenters, allowing clinicians to engage in an extensive variety of topics relevant to the field of Self Psychology.

EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of this conference, participants will be able to:

1. Recognize the significance of plurality in psychoanalytic perspectives, as evidenced by an ability to speak to how a traditional self psychology model might be distinguished from a motivational systems self psychology model, specificity theory model, and a relational self psychology model in regard to views on transferrence, listening perspective, and countertransference from these perspectives.

2. Describe how a Relational perspective and a Self Psychology perspective compare and contrast.

3. Demonstrate awareness of how group therapy, child and family therapy, and couples therapy might be understood from a Self Psychological perspective.

4. Identify ways in which Self Psychology might enhance understanding of dissociation and multiple personality disorders.

5. Recognize distinctions among varieties of learning disability, and how Self Psychological theory might enhance the clinician’s knowledge of this set of phenomena.

6. Apply introductory concepts in Self Psychology to clinical understanding of given case material.

ACCREDITATION

This conference is presented by the International Council on The Psychology of The Self and co-sponsored by the Institute of Contemporary Psychoanalysis, Los Angeles, CA (ICPLA).
