WHAT IAPSP OFFERS TO ITS MEMBERS

IAPSP is a nonprofit organization whose central purpose is to foster relational psychoanalytic self psychology as a living science and a developing profession. Our membership comprises a vital community of clinicians, scholars, and theoreticians who are at the forefront of the work first started by Heinz Kohut and now integrating contemporary findings from science, philosophy, and cognitive psychology. Our ongoing integration of scientific findings and philosophical considerations create a continuously evolving self psychological vision. IAPSP increases the opportunity for those interested in psychoanalytic Self Psychology to create a strong affiliation that fosters a network for professional and personal development and dialogue.
