

Dr. Gerard Webster is a training and supervising psychoanalyst who is registered as both a forensic and counselling psychologist in Australia. He has worked with victims and perpetrators of child sexual abuse for almost forty years. He completed his psychoanalytic training at the Institute of Contemporary Psychoanalysis in Los Angeles and won the International Journal of Psychoanalytic Self Psychology Candidate Essay Award in 2015. His PhD thesis explored how Process Philosophy provides a coherent foundation for Psychoanalytic Complexity Theory, and argued, examining the case of a child sex offender, that this psychoanalytic approach supports current evidence-based treatment models for working with forensic patients.
